NOTES TO THE CONDUCTOR

Oh Chanukah is a traditional Yiddish song about a joyous holiday. The lyric mentions the Chanukah traditions of playing dreidl (a spinning top game that always involves M&Ms in my house), eating latkes (potato pancakes), and lighting candles in the menorah (ritual candelabra).

Oh Chanukah is often performed in an up-beat freylekh (Klezmer) style. In this arrangement, the melody has been syncopated and set in an American Bo Diddley groove. Either way, it ought to get the toes tapping.

Here are several rehearsal notes and suggestions to help you get the most out of your band:

- Swing the eighth notes.
- The strong structure is A–B–C–DD, corresponding to themes beginning in mm. 5 (A), 13 (B), 25 (C), and 33/41 (D/D). The theme at m. 51 isn't part of the original song, but seems to fit the style and groove to my ear.
- Even though this song is in B-flat minor, it is notated in B-flat major with accidentals to help young musicians with reading.
- The drum 'ride' pattern should be played on the floor tom if possible.
- Your rhythm section should have fun with this Bo Diddley groove. Have them memorize their repeated figures, and use some rehearsal time to let them groove on it for a few minutes. There are several great videos on YouTube about the Bo Diddley rhythm that are worth sharing with your rhythm section players.
- Clear articulations will help everything sound better.
- You can repeat the solo section (m. 51) as little or as often as you wish.
- I encourage you to use Oh Chanukah as a vehicle for helping all of your musicians develop improvisation skills. A simple B-flat minor pentatonic scale and a few 2-bar rhythms will give them plenty to work with.
- The optional band vocal "oy" at the end should be said in a gravelly, old-guy-from-the-Bronx voice.

Enjoy!
