PROGRAM NOTES

La Furia (The Fury) is an original composition by veteran arranger and composer Victor López. The fury is unleashed in this composition with powerful and enthusiastic musical statements from beginning to end. The inspiration for the piece came from the unbalanced character that exists in today's world. It is forceful and expressive, so sit back and enjoy the intensity and enthusiasm of this original concert band work.

NOTES TO THE CONDUCTOR

The four exercises included with this piece serve as warm-ups and help expediate the rehearsal. Note that the respective rhythmic and melodic motifs will make the piece much easier to teach and learn. Before starting the rehearsal, take the opportunity to explain to your students how dynamics are relevant and do not refer to specific volume levels. This is usually apparent depending on the room or concert hall acoustical absorption as opposed to a bathroom, a small space with tiles and no sound absorption. Note that there are sections throughout the piece when the entire ensemble has the same dynamic levels. In those situations, make certain that each section is listening for the lowest sound in the ensemble and is not covering the melody. In a nutshell, many ensembles do not have the ideal instrumentation; consequently, you are encouraged to change the dynamic markings accordingly to fit your needs. I believe La Furia is going to be your students' favorite piece and that, by its very nature, will keep them practicing.
